How Father John's Medicine Got Its Name—Facts That Everybody Qught To Know

Father John's Devotion To His Work

In the early days of Lowell, Mass., one of the most prominent figures in the life of the city was Rev. Father John O'Brien, of St. Patrick's Parish.

Through overwork and devotion to his parishioners, Father John, as he was affectionately called by all who knew him, became very much run down and was attacked by a serious cold and throat trouble. His illness did not yield to the ordinary remedies. Finally he secured from a learned doctor, a prescription which he took to the old drug store of Carleton & Hovey where it was compounded on June 9, 1855. This prescription produced such excellent results that Father John was soon able to resume his labors among the people and everywhere he went he would recommend the medicine to his parishioners. People soon acquired the habit of going to the old drug store and asking for "Father John's" medicine. In this way the medicine was named by the people and because of the results which it accomplished, it soon became the family remedy in countless homes.

From this small beginning more than sixty years ago, Father John's Medicine has become more and more widely known, until today it is the standard family remedy in thousands of homes all over the country. Mothers especially recognize its value because they know it is a pure and wholesome food medicine which makes flesh and strength without using alcohol or dangerous drugs and is, therefore, safe for children as well as older people. Every druggist carries Father John's Medicine in stock, Many families keep it on hand constantly.

As a guarantee that all of the facts regarding the origin of Father John's Medicine, as stated above, are absoluely true, the manufacturers of Father John's Medicine will give $25,000.00 to any charity, if it can be shown otherwise -Advertisement.

MOVE FOR RETRIAL OF HUTCHINS CASE

Death of Justice Anderson Left the Bill of Exceptions

Unsettled.

Will the contest over the $4,000,900 state of Stilson Hutchins, which ocupied the attention of the District Supreme Court in a trial lasting five onths during the court term, 1914 1915, have to be re-tried?

This problem is presented to th court by reason of the death of Justice Anderson, who presided at the trial and who had not had presented to him for signature the bill of exceptions on which is based the appeal of Walter Stilson Hutchins from the verdict of a jury breaking his father's Motion for New Trial.

The appellant today filed, in the Pro bate Court, a motion for a new trial. and served notice on counsel for his brother, Lee Hutchins, that he would call the matter to the attention of Jusice McCoy next Friday.

tice McCoy next Friday.

The motion of Walter Stilson Hutchins for a retrial of the celebrated case rests on the authority of law rule 48, section 3, which provides for a new trial whenever the court "is unable to settle a bill of exceptions in any cause." As the justice who presided is dead. Attorneys Henry E. Davis and Charles H. Merillat, for the elder brother, claim the bill of exceptions cannot be settled and a new trial must be claim the bill of exceptions cannot settled and a new trial must be Expected to Oppose Retrial.

Attorneys William G. Johnson, Mye ohen and Frank J. Hogan, for Lee Hutchins, are expected to oppose the ranting of a retrial. It is expected that their opposition will be based on section 1590 of the United States Statutes, which appears to allow another justice of the court to sign a bill when the presiding justice dies, provided there is a stenographic report of the trial, or when the other justice "is satisfied by any other means that he can pass upon such motion and allow a true bill of excentions."

pass upon such motion and allow a true bill of exceptions."

Counsel seeking a new true true will contend that this federal enactment is not applicable to the District of Columbia, and that no other justice can take the place of the deceased presiding justice and approve the exceptions. The District Court of Appeals, however, has construed this provision, and in the case of United States agt. Roney (42 Appeals, 533) heid the provision to be in force in this District, and not inconsistent with any legislation locally applicable.

That case arose on the death of Chief Justice Clabaugh. The bill of exceptions was signed by Chief Justice Covington, his successor.

50,000 PUPILS NOTIFIED TO COLLECT OLD PAPERS

Days for Bringing Material to Schools Will Be Designated Within Short Time.

Official notification to collect old newspapers and magazines for the chool playgrounds and other social MOTION BY W. S. HUTCHINS activities was given to more than 50,000 boys and girls in the public schools of the District of Columbia today. This was in accordance with directions issued by the superintendent of schools, Ernest L. Thurston, to his supervising officers Friday Already the work of paper collecting has become one of enthusiasm for a large number of the youngsters. Many of them have great stacks of papers awaiting the designation of the days on which they are to bring the papers to school.

This work, in the hands of Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, probably will be completed to-day. Mr. Kramer is outlining a route to be followed by the collection wagons, in order that no more difficulties be offered in the collection of the papers than necessary. According to Mr. Kramer, it is "some job."

Days Soon to Be Designated.

As soon as the "mapping" is comlete, the schools will be notified as to what day they are expected to have their papers ready for collection. The children probably will then be told to bring the papers they collect on the day preceding.

"Op," the little elf who is guardian of old papers and gets his name from the initial letters of the two words, "old papers," is looking over the various schools to see which ones have rious schools to see which ones have the pupils who are going to bring in the greatest number of papers. Op is desirous that not a solitary old paper escape, and he is calling on the chil-dren of Washington to help him in this work, calling attention to the fact that his name also is the beginning of "opportunity," and that by helping him the children will be helping themselves.

Narrative of Other Events.

Mr. Creel gave the history of the arrest of the American sailors at Tampico April 9, 1914, by Huerta officials, their subsequent release, and Admiral Mayos made such a move. Capt. Doughty suggested that Admiral Mayo permit him to collect the American flag be saluted, as told by Admiral Mayo. Mr. Creel quoted the admiral to the effect that while there was considerable excitement in Tampico from April 9 to 13, from the 14th to the 29th things seemed to be normal in the city and that such had been reported to the Navy Department. It was on April 29 that Secretary Daniels issued the order for Mayo.

It was on April 20 that Secretary Daniels issued the order for Mayo to proceed to Vera Cruz, an order which has caused much criticism.

"At the time that the Secretary issued the order on April 20, he had every reason to believe that affairs at Tampico were normal and that they had

Mr. Creel explained Secretary Daniels' order to Admiral Mayo to proceed to Vera Cruz on the ground that the light draft vessels under his command would be needed to take the customshouse at Vera Cruz, and that Admiral Badger, with the Atlantic squadron, was due in Tampico the evening of April 21. This explanation, he said, Admiral Mayo had declared to be "simple, straightforward and convincing."

Final Survey of Situation. Mr. 'Creel quoted Admiral Mayo as saying that when he received his orders for Vera Cruz he called in the American consul at Tampico, Mr. Miller, to make a final survey of the situation. Admiral Mayo, he said, did not

The interview was written by George Creel, who was that time of the order to seize the Vera Cruz customshouse, and communicated Admiral Mayo, as follows:

"Mr. Miller protested strenuously against my departure. All was quiet, to be sure, but there was the everpresent anti-American feeling that had to be guarded against. I concluded that it was not safe to leave Tampico, and communicated the consults protest and my own opinion to Admiral Fletcher. "Radio communication was difficult,
